Whip Mix recently introduced a new design for digital wax pots. According to Whip Mix, the Wax Pot - Multi Well and the Digital Dipping Pot - Single Well are designed to quickly melt waxes and maintain desired temperature accurately and precisely to achieve optimum workability. In addition to shared standard features, each unit has their own unique functions. The manufacturer claims that even when the unit has been turned off, the Digital Dipping Pot - Single Well can store the previous working temperature in memory between uses. The Wax Pot - Multi Well indicates when the set temperature point has been reached for desired workability.

According to Whip Mix Corporation, the recently introduced Flexible Vac-U-Mixer bowl is designed to help the frustrated dental laboratory technician by releasing the majority of the hardened stone without damaging the bowl.

The Flexible Vac-U-Mixer bowl is available for use with the Vacuum Power Mixer, Combination Unit and the Whip Mix VPM2 Programmable Vacuum Mixer. The bowl purportedly gives the technician the advantage of easy clean up and is the first ever flexible bowl for vacuum mixing. Whip Mix reports the visual indicator of a maximum fill line within the bowl prevents overfilling which can result in damage to the mixing unit.

Constructed from a higher impact-resistant material than a standard mixing bowl, the Flexible Vac-U-Mixer bowl is contoured with a larger opening for easier hand and spatula access. The bowl comes in 350 gram and 650 gram sizes. Lid and paddle assemblies vary depending on the type of Whip Mix unit used.
